

If Kenya joined the Eurozone today, it would be one of its least indebted countries - outperforming Finland, Austria and Germany

Most Sub-Saharan African nations are significantly less indebted than their European peers. Strong economies and balanced financial systems aided by targeted debt relief will lead to increasing financial independence.

Portugal is borrowing cash from its former colony, oil-rich Angola. In 2012, the number of Portuguese residing in Angola increased by 79%.

